Liberals Win Quebec In Avalanche of Votes

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—Liberals under Hon. Adélard Godbout made ready Thursday to take over administration of Quebec's affairs and to co-operate with the Federal Government in Mr. Godbout's promised, "safe and sane administration" and to back the stand on war participation of its federal ministers was expressed Wednesday in an avalanche of votes that sent 67 Liberals to the legislative assembly in this ancient capital.

Premier Duplessis found his Union Nationale representation of 71 when he called a general election a month ago—reduced to 16. One Independent and one National candidate made up the total of 25 who were counted in after the polls closed.

One constituency (Charlevoix-Saguenay) votes on November 25th. Six Cabinet Ministers were among government party casualties, as the liberals reversed the vote which put them out of power in 1916 for the first time in 39 years.

The new Premier will be Godbout, who had that position for 2 months in 1936, after a period as Minister of Agriculture. Throughout the campaign the Premier-elect talked provincial affairs, urged a broad agricultural program, improvement of rural life and collective labor contracts.

At Ottawa on Wednesday night, Prime Minister MacDonald saw the Quebec result as showing "above all else, that the people of Quebec are at one with their fellow Canadians of the other provinces in their determination that a united Canada shall co-operate at the side of Britain and France in the war to defend freedom."

Conservative leader, Hon. Dr. N. Marston said, "participation is no longer an issue, now let us get on with the war." Mr. Lapointe declared, "I will remain at my post."

Mrs. Law and daughters, Esther and Hilda, left on Tuesday's train for Edmonton, where the family will make their home.

There was a large number at the station to see Mrs. Law and her daughters away.

Among those was a group of C.G. I.T. who expressed their farewell in a snappy song.

Mrs. Law invites all her friends to visit them in their new home.

C. P. R Immigration Official Visits The Sudeten Colony

"I am visiting these people to see how they are getting along," observed the visitor, who will return on Friday's train.

J. O. Letourneau Was Driving Car, Accompanied By Two Passengers, When Car Overturned On The Edmonton-Tofield Highway West Of Tofield—Was Well-known In Grande Prairie—Wife And Son, Dorsey, Also In Edmonton, Where Funeral Was Held.

TOFIELD, Oct. 23.—J. O. A. Letourneau, 50, of Tofield, was killed instantly, when the car he was driving overturned on the Edmonton-Tofield highway, about six miles west of Tofield, at midnight Saturday.

Two passengers, Frank D. Carter of Edmonton, and John Tough, farmer at Hastings lake, escaped with some bruises and scratches and a severe shaking.

The car when rounding a bend in the highway at Lindbrook, for some unknown reason left the road and plunged into the ditch, which is about eight feet deep at that point, and overturned. The accident was investigated by Coroner Dr. F. F. Law of Tofield and Constable Austin of the R.C.M.P. detachment.

An inquest will not be held, the accident being regarded as accidental.

Mr. Letourneau had been secretary-treasurer of the Corn Hill municipal district No. 487 at Tofield from 1938 until about six months ago; and prior to that date he had been a branch bank manager, first with the Merchants' bank and later with the Bank of Montreal at Acme, Carbon, Irma and Bentley. He leaves his widow, son Dorsey, his mother, one brother and two sisters.

Mr. Letourneau was well-known at Grande Prairie. With his family, he came here early in December in 1938, and formed a partnership with T. L. Shultz, and with him operated the Capitol Billiard Hall. The partnership was dissolved and Mr. Letourneau left early in August for Edmonton.

Mrs. Letourneau and son, Dorsey, remained at Grande Prairie.

Dorsey left for Edmonton on Sunday by plane and Mrs. Letourneau left on Tuesday's train.

The funeral was held at Edmonton, and burial took place in the Edmonton cemetery.

C. J. LaValley, Of G.P., Gets Into Print In A Big Way

The following story appeared in the October number of the Case Eagle, published at Racine by the Case Company.

"Our secret correspondent has been getting a long way from the home port this summer, in fact, the last we heard of him he was up in Canada in the Peace River country. In his last report he sent us this picture of an Eskimo."

"The subject of this little sketch is our good blockman C. J. LaValley, who headquarters at Grande Prairie, Alta., which is the largest town in the Peace River block. He covers all of that territory as much as 70 and 80 miles beyond the steel."

"He doesn't always wear this equipment, but sometimes in the winter he wears a cloth like this to make his calls. This picture was taken on a summer day and he looks rather hot and uncomfortable in it. It was taken in front of the dealer's place of business at Peace River, Alta."

"Clem, as his friends call him, is a big fellow, measuring 6 ft. 2 in. with plenty of punch. He's the kind of a chap that, if he needs to use a dog team or any other method of transportation to go see a customer or a dealer, he doesn't hesitate—he gets there. It is said that he is also good at lifting his car out of a mudhole in case of an emergency."

"He is a regular fellow—in other words, he is a 'Case man,' with all that that term implies."

The story carries a large picture of LaValley, dressed in what has all the appearance of an Eskimo suit.

Pat McCann Ships Four Car Loads Of High-Grade Cattle

Much Excitement Prevailed At The Moody Crossing When The Cattle Turned In Mid-Stream—Shuts Is Built And Animals Ferried Across—Cattle Shipped Direct To The Edmonton Market.

There was excitement galore at Moody's Crossing the other day when Pat McCann, assisted by two cowboys, Jack Pearson and Dolphus Delaney, attempted to swim Pat's four car loads of cattle across the Big Smoky.

The cattle took to the water, but turned at midstream. Some of them broke away from the herd and three days to round up the herd and three days to get them into Grande Prairie, which is a distance of thirty miles from the ranch.

The cattle which were shipped on Saturday's stock train were considered by stock men as fine as any grass-fed cattle ever shipped from this point, and were shipped direct to Edmonton. Pat went out with the cattle.

Asked how many more cattle he had left, Pat, who has been raising cattle in this country for many years in a big way, scratched his head and replied, "Bless me I don't know how many are still in the timber," adding that he would gradually carry out his decision to go out of the cattle business.

The visitors were familiar with the Eastern ranges, but this was the first time they had ever been in the great Rockies, which they found inspiring.

Two bears, brown and black; two each of moose, sheep and caribou, and one deer, were secured.

The weather was tricky, but this fact did not interfere with the New Yorkers enjoying the trip into the Rockies.

In discussing the trip with The Herald-Tribune reporter, Dr. Muenzell observed, "We found Mr. Sunderman and his guides not only very highly efficient, but fine company, all of which helped to make our visit a most pleasant one."

Speaking of New York, the visitor stated that it was decided to hold the Big Fair another year. The reason for this was that the receipts were far below what was expected. The New Yorkers left on Sunday's plane for Edmonton.

This may be contributed in cash or in suitable produce such as vegetables, meat, butter, eggs, or anything that the dining room can use to advantage. CONSCRIPTING WEALTH

During the Great War, although the government finally decided to put in conscription, wealth was not conscripted and did not carry its fair share of the cost of Canada's end of the war. The result was that while Canadian soldiers were fighting on the battlefields of Europe for a $1.10 a day, many millionaires were made in the country.

With this in mind, the majority of Canadian people are anxious that this will not occur in the present struggle in which we find ourselves. Now what does the phrase "Conscripting wealth" really mean?

Everyone is talking about it. The newspapers and other publications are full of articles on the subject. Up to the present no political party has reduced to understandable English just what is meant by the term, "Conscripting Wealth" where it begins and where it ends.

Possibly some of our readers can enlighten on this point.

A REAL EMERGENCY

When an emergency arises, the people act.

When an epidemic strikes, the country mobilizes to conquer it.

When fire or disaster of any kind crosses the country, thousands of dollars and trainloads of food and clothing pour into the stricken area.

If an enemy invaded our shores, every one of us would rush to the defense.

Today we are faced with an emergency as great as any of these—ally I wished that he swore. I would have felt safer.

The printing business is a most trying business and few there be who are in the business who do not rip off a few oaths when something goes wrong.

I quite agree that swearing seems senseless and has no logical basis, but I do say, that it is a wonderful relief to explode now and again.

The most serious swearer I ever met was a member of the Fourth Estate. This man had a wide vocabulary, but even that was inadequate to express his feelings when he "gled" a handful of type.

As suggested by the Canadian, possibly the extending of the average person's vocabulary would help some, but I am here to say that under certain circumstances, good plain English does not fill the bill.

During the process of evolution man may develop such control of himself that swearing will not be necessary. However, I contend that at the moment, I like that phrase, swearing at times furnishes an exhaust valve and helps the individual retain his or her sanity.

A NEW PAPER APPEARS IN THE NORTH COUNTRY

Newspapers come and go. A new paper recently appeared in the Grande Prairie district, published by Five Mile Creek School. The new publication carries the heading "East End Flier," and is printed by Hecograph method. The first issue appeared the latter part of September and the next number will be published the last week in October.

The editors are James Carveth and Jim Boyd, who evidently are assisted by an able staff.

Interpersed throughout the paper are several cartoons that are really quite clever. Other features are: A live editorial page, a sparkling sports page. The paper carries not only local, but foreign news. One page is given over to advertising and carries the heading "If it's worth selling, it is worth advertising."

Of which The Herald-Tribune staff agrees with one hundred per cent.

The first effort is most creditable and is worthy of every support in the community.

In an editorial, "The East End Flier" outlines improvement for its future numbers.

R. E. McIlroy is the principal of the school and Miss W. Willem has charge of the Junior Division.

The Herald-Tribune welcomes "The East End Flier" into the journalistic fold.

A CHAT WITH AN OLDTIMER

On Friday morning I ran across Joe Carveth, one of the oldtimers, not only at Rycroft, but at Grande Prairie.

Joe, who was here on business, stated that he rambled along into Gray between Grande Prairie to Watino from 1905 to 1916, when he decided to settle down and took up land in the Rycroft district, something he has never been sorry for, as he has done real well in his farming operations.

Joe informed the writer that he drew the first load of lumber into Grande Prairie for the first frame building.

The visitor further said that in the early days he squatted on land upon which the business of the oldtimers, Prairie, built. "I threw this up and filed on a quarter south of Kleskun lake. From there I went to Watino and settled on land in the valley of the Big Smoky. That was before the steel had reached that point. Joe added: "I was some squatter in those days."

Discussing the early days, Joe stated that he came into the country from Edmonton over the ice on Slave Lake, covering a distance in all of 650 miles.

Referring to the days when the country was being surveyed, Joe observed: "I wonder if Walter McFarlane, who was surveying land east of Kleskun Lake, remembers the day when a bullet shot at a goose, scattered his crew. This happened in the spring of the year."

The oldtimer stated that he had a good crop this year, which he got threshed in good shape. His wheat, he said, graded No. 1.

Dad's Notions

By E. S. Stanley

Undisciplined desire like an unbroken colt is apt to get one into trouble.

You can no more have happiness without contentment than you can have life without breath.

The pathway of contentment and the highway of desire are often radically divergent so that the further you traverse desire, the further you may get from contentment.

Someone has said if you want to make a friend happy, don't give him all he wants, but curtail his desires. Happiness is a mathematical problem. Make your desire equal to what you have and the sum of this is happiness.

A classical example of unbridled desire is seen in Hitler. The world has found to its sorrow that there is not a thing so sacred that it won't lose to the winds in his mad quest. The rights of others, their lives, their property and even their souls are pitilessly crushed beneath his dictatorial rule. Here is a demon possessed at large. His desires, like a snowball, gathers size and momentum with every foot of its untrammelled course.

It is bad enough for an individual to be under the sway of insatiable desire, with contentment destroyed and misery haunting him, but when one is possessed by a national dictator, it is an international disaster.

However, to be dissatisfied is not always wrong. The desire which leaps the bounds of reason that dire results follow.

A certain phase of restlessness, dissatisfaction, discomfort, discontent—a desire for improvement—has its place in the affairs of men and of nations. But when it reaches that stage of excluding the rights of others, it is then tyranny and suffering ensues.

Man dissatisfied with walking invented the bicycle, the auto, the train and the aeroplane.

It was the restless spirit of Columbus that discovered the new world. And chafing under the restraint and hardships, people sailed across the waters and formed colonies there.

Like a mighty tide the Pacific coast was settled; and now the last north-west is being filled up—all the result of a restless spirit in the heart of man; a spirit that has well nigh become an inherited trait. I think, but the spirit of contentment, satisfaction, complacency has its pitfalls. When it reaches the place that strivings and efforts cease, decline and decay sets in.

Cease to improve or to use your mind and your power of thought weakens. Cease using your physical strength and your muscles grow flabby and disease more readily enters.

Let the nations be content with what she is and does; and evils, like bad weeds, spring forth everywhere.

The ethics of collecting interest on money loans has hardly been questioned. And I think it is correct that the unseen equalizing forces in the affairs of men had for centuries kept the creation of vast fortunes from reaching impossible bounds. Thus man ran no serious need of adjusting his economic system.

But during the last hundred years inventions have thrown men out of work in ever increasing numbers. Man has stood by and idly watched the process within his economic setup would take care of the situation—but it didn't.

We have prudently, with a feeling of virtue, given relief to the unemployed; but in doing so, we have been criminally remiss.

To set men apart by giving them relief as if it were charity, when they were able bodied and anxious to have a part in the nation's activity, anxious to contribute to the increase of its wealth is brutal. Lashes from the whip, I submit, are less painful.

You can't tell this writer that the intelligence that can bring forth labor saving devices in ever increasing volume can't solve the economic problems that these inventions created. They can! It is the crime of indifference in those with whom lies the power of solution, and still greater crime of greed that deter them.

Forced idleness or forced labor. Which is worse? Behold how we have erred and come short of the full glory of democracy!

(We must note in passing, however, that all is not lost. Fondly do we cherish the virtues still present in our democratic system of government. My vote would be a thousand to zero against that monstrous rule we are forced to oppose—his brutality, greed, and utter devaluation of the many traits included in the word HONOR.)

But we have long worked at cross purposes, party against party, class against class, while constantly sinning deeper into the musk of difficulty. But upon the scene appears a brute champing his jaws and dribbling the blood of his last catch.

Thoroughly alarmed, we come to a huddle. Party, class and differences are disappearing before our common foe. All our powers are concentrating and tensing for the ghastly task forced upon us.

Already cash is being released in terms of national need. What we stubbornly refuse to do for ourselves in peace times we have no trouble whatever in doing in war time.

Out of the conflict may come peace—internal peace; out of the bitter the sweet, if we have the good sense to put to practice the lessons we learn.

Where is the wicked soul who will not offer his dollars without interest; his capital without hire, when the nation's boys are offering their dearest thing—their lives? He is not a life offered for the service of the Empire, has no assurance of coming back. But capital offered in the same service is as sure of coming back as the nation is of standing. And are there men so heartless that they will not forego interest charges when their brethren are laying down their lives? Even the gift of capital itself is as nothing compared with such sacrifices.

While curbing our desires and fostering contentment, we must guard against self-complacency and the neglect of our duty.

"Contentment is great gain," but "let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

AERONAUTICAL TIT-BITS

By J. W. Nell

AEROPLANES OR AERODROMES

Anything may happen in this mad world, and the latest form of lunacy is a struggle between the aerodrome and the aeroplane; it is as if one half of a Siamese twin should argue with the other as to their relative importance.

Air Ministers and Director General miss no opportunity of stressing the need of aerodromes, "and for the love of Mike have them near your town"—and following them come the experts who pursue their lips and say "Tut-tut, this won't do! Look at the half! It can't be more than two miles away! How much run can you get? 1,500 yards up to a hedge, 6 feet high? Well, it may work, but if only you had 5,000 yards and a hedge 3 feet high, we could get an aeroplane to stagger off with a much bigger load—and that might make civil aviation pay."

But stay, what's that? A factory chimney? It is only 100 feet high and 1,000 yards away, you say! May be, but it is a positive danger. That's the worst of these aerodromes near cities, too many obstacles! No, it won't do! Take it right away—into the Sahara desert if you like, as long as I don't see it.

Will that make civil aviation pay? Did the Director General of Civil Aviation really say that, to knock 20 minutes off the time for a 100 mile air journey, the aircraft has either got to cruise at 350 miles an hour or the journey times between the towns and the airports has got to be halved?

We are in danger of getting hounded by technicalities: why not a little broader common sense for a change? Is it really safe to encourage an aeroplane technique which cannot get into or out of a field of 200 acres at an angle greater than 1 in 30 or so? What will these machines do on a forced landing? and the forced landings may come to the best of multi-engined planes.

Let us accept aerodromes of a size which we can hope to get, and make aeroplanes which can use them.

Let's recognize that aerodromes near cities inevitably grow up above the ground. Pilots must know that obstacles exist, they must have aeroplanes from which they can see, and we must assume that if visibility is at a low that they cannot see these objects, it must be fog and the clear run fog landing strip must be used.

After all, the aerodrome is a piece of nature, and the choice and the possibility of modification are both limited; the aeroplane is a thing of our own hands which we can make over as we will.

HUALLEN NEWS

HUALLEN, Oct. 24.—After being postponed once already on account of muddy roads the committee have decided to let the long looked forward to dance go on, so it was held last Friday night. In the parking space around the hall, it was noted that cars were conspicuous by their total absence, so most of the devotees of the dance arrived by foot, lumber wagon or what have you. There was a good crowd on hand although the fair sex were sadly in the minority. The Bluebird's Orchestra dispensed sparkling music, so we "rolled out the barrel and had lots of fun."

We notice that John Zimmerman who left here last spring for the Edmonton district is back again, also Jim Slocome, who spent the summer working in the Wembley district. Welcome back, boys.

Threshing operations held up for the past two weeks is again being resumed. Some farmers are stacking their crops.

R. S. Young informs us that the Huallen rural mail route will soon start. We have no information yet as to the successful tender for the mail route.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Clow are at present visiting the Capital City. While there they propose taking in the Howard Scott, Technocracy meeting.

A miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Dan Willsey, a recent bride, was held last Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Willsey. The newly weds were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Murray MacDonald's sale has been postponed and will be held on Wednesday, November 8 at 1 o'clock sharp. This is your invitation to the wedding dance being put on by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Willsey on Friday night, October 27th. All are welcome, so come on out and enjoy dancing to the Bluebirds orchestra.

BELLOY, Oct. 23.—Reuben Larson spent last week-end at his parents home in Fox Creek.

W. H. Wortman made a business trip to Watino last Monday. Plans are under way for a whist drive and dance to be held in the hall on Nov. 5, to raise funds for the Belloy and Steele school districts combined Christmas concert. This will be the first function of its kind this season and should draw a capacity crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bolduc were Sunday visitors in the Codessa district visiting relatives of the latter.

Miss Annie Kostash visited some friends at Rycroft last week-end and at the same time kept an appointment with R. Carter, Edmonton optometrist.

D. Stauffer, a brother of the local elevator agent, spent a few days in the village last week. He has just arrived from High River where he was operating a grain truck in the harvest. He states crops were good, with higher yields than expected but of lower quality than northern wheat with grades running from 1 Nor. to No. 5, due to early frosts. Threshing was about 95% completed in the High River district.

Timely Hints From the Beaverlodge Sub-Station

By
W. D. Albright

"IT IS A PLEASURE AS WELL AS A DUTY TO SERVE"

A morning dome of blackness Rests on an arc of rose.
Brightly the sun emerges;
Briskly the west wind blows.

Storm windows pay well.

Sweep the chimneys before cold weather clings down.

Time yet for autumn furrowing around the building sites.

Warm floors are about one-third the secret of winter comfort.

Slow-draught flues soon choke with soot. They need frequent watching.

The autumn of 1939 bequeaths 1940 a fairly liberal store of subsoil moisture.

A neighbor boy hunting grouse shot 7 rabbits one October afternoon.
Horticulturist, beware! Horticulturist, take care! Many young trees are girdled each year when the rabbits are here. So beware, beware!

Early spring and autumn are the dehorning seasons. Flies on the one hand and extreme cold weather on the other hand are the conditions to be avoided. Dehorning, no matter how humbly done, is a shock to the cattle but spares them much misery later on.

Next year there may be a few more threshers clearing up their own fields first. That will make it all the more expedient for their customers to take what steps they can to bring their crop in early and perhaps in some cases to do some stacking.

With the ground as wet as it is this autumn, frost may be expected to bite deeply if it gets a chance.
Protect pipe lines and other critical areas with a thick insulating coat of straw or hay. Do it before the ground is frozen and the summer's warmth lost.

HINTS FOR STORING ROOTS AND VEGETABLES

The present world situation makes it advisable to conserve all foodstuffs, including vegetables, and a reported shortage of potatoes in western Canada will encourage everyone to save this commodity to the utmost.

Improper methods of storing roots and vegetables account for tremendous losses each year. On most farms these are facilities for storing these valuable foods, and a little care exercised in the fall of the year in putting them safely away will assure an adequate supply for the winter.

Two things are essential for proper storage, first a good product, and second, good storage conditions. A bruised or diseased product not only rots itself, but induces rot in sound products beside it. Ideal storage conditions are usually found in temperatures ranging from 34 to 39 deg.
Fah., where the air is reasonably moist and where circulation of air is good.

On most farms the house cellar is common location for storing roots and vegetables. For ideal conditions the following suggestions are made: Carrots, parsnips, and beets may be placed in bins without covers, or even in barrels if there is good ventilation. These vegetables may also be stored safely in clean sand. Parsnips may be left in the ground until just before freeze-up, and then removed to storage, but carrots and beets are injured by fall frosts. Turnips may be left out until late in the fall and they may be stored in bins without harm.

Cabbage should fully mature before being harvested, and they will withstand some frost. After removing the outer leaves and roots, the heads may be wrapped in newspaper laid on shaves where they will keep very well. Piling two or three deep is also permissible. Hanging of the cabbages by the roots is a common practice, but tends to reduce the crispness of the head.

Onions should be well dried for storage. They may be placed in open crates where the temperature is low and the air is dry. Thick necked onions should be used first, as they do not keep as well as those with thin necks.

In storing potatoes select only the sound ones. It is unwise to pile potatoes on the floor, as a circulation of air cannot occur. They keep well in baskets, boxes or crates, or slatted bins. No light should strike the potatoes in storage as this will cause sprouting. It is advisable to inspect them once in a while and remove any diseased tubers. The storage of large quantities of potatoes in outside root houses is of course, another question.

PREPARE FOR NEXT YEAR'S GARDEN

More moisture will be available on the garden next spring if a temporary rail fence or obstruction can be built to catch the snow. Such a snow trap should be placed so it will build up an even drift on the garden. Some gardens with permanent windbreaks of trees do not collect snow evenly, and the garden suffers accordingly.
After the first snow of fall comes, the grader may be used to make a ridge of the snow, which will collect drifts.

writer trudged through a foot or two of snow with a shotgun to protect the test stocks from prairie chickens.
Two or three times during brief breaks of the weather he snovelled the stocks clear. At last persever-ence was rewarded, the plots were all clubbed out by hand in a cold shed and fairly content yields were obtained. But it was quite an ordeal.

Apples Ripened Along Great Slave Lake

From Fort Resolution, on the south shore of Great Slave Lake, at a point 227 miles due north of Edmonton, Rev. Father Duchesne, O.M.I., sends two small apples each about an inch in length and a quarter in diameter produced on trees planted there in 1930. The apples were partially de-cayed on arrival at Beaverlodge but not before they were ripe when picked September 24. One tree had 36 apples. The other had about 40.
Many of the trees are children of many hands. The trees were planted probably of the Siberian crab apple, previously been ripened in quantity on two trees at that point.

Blindness in Chickens

Spring chickens go blind very gradually. Heads seem to be abnormally red before they are totally blind, but otherwise appear to be perfectly healthy. The hen house is dry and warm. Chickens are fed on a good ration of corn and chop.
Are running out so get all the greens they want.—W. G. R., Cecil Lake, B.C.

Ans. While it is not usual for blindness to develop so early in the spring-hatched chickens, this seems typical of the blindness which has become so prevalent in recent years.
This disease, fowl paralysis or lymphomatosis, leucosis, or "big-liver disease" as it is called, is manifest in various ways—sometimes a paresis in a leg or wing or both, sometimes blindness, other times by tumors which may grow in almost any of the internal organs but which in nearly all cases are visible.

We do not know the exact cause or cure of the disease. It is probable that the paralysis has come from infection in the soil or that possibly the stock secured lacks resistance to the infection. We cannot say definitely whether or not it is transmitted from parent stock to chicks.

In our experience resistance to the disease is built up by selecting and breeding from birds that have survived an attack, and eliminating all females that show weakness or susceptibility.

Since young birds are more susceptible to this disease than are old birds, it might be advisable to dispose of the young stock entirely and purchase older stock known to be free of the trouble.

A live bird would be necessary for a positive diagnosis but a history of the flock, with neediness as to the source of stock would be helpful.

Husbandry, University of B. C.

In the development of its wool industry, Australia has made remarkable progress. In three generations, by skillful breeding, the average weight of fleece per sheep has been doubled.

Farmers Provide Munitions of War

With Canada again engaged in another war, the Canadian farmer has more than usual cause for meditation while he turns the furrows in preparation for next year's crops.

Quality in food products is of vastly greater importance in time of war than in times of peace, says G.
R. Snyder, Soil Chemist. The greatest physical and nervous energy expended by the people demands more food—and better food.

Scientifically, agriculture has advanced tremendously since the era of the first great war. Research workers in nutritional problems have uncovered many essential truths relating to food values. Field crop specialists have in turn developed culture methods that enable the farmer to produce crops that contain essential food values in well balanced proportions.

Soil fertility is definitely recognized as one of the big factors in the production of quality food. Crops produced on fertile soil are richer in minerals, proteins, carbohydrates and vitamins. Thus, the conservation and enrichment of the soil, the replenishing of the soil with elements of fertility is fundamental procedure which all those interested in agriculture and the war-time food supply are bound to give the fullest consideration.

This fall, while the fields are being plowed, is the best time to take soil samples—the first step towards correcting any weaknesses that were particularly noticeable as affecting yields or quality of crops during the past season. Many agricultural stations and some commercial fertilizer organizations will supply on request special soil-sample boxes and soil-sampling instructions. Half a pint of soil is all that is required for the chemical test, but the sample must be thoroughly representative of the area being studied.

Information regarding previous cropping rotation, manuring, drainage and type of crop to be grown next year should be submitted with samples. These factors must be considered before an intelligent diagnosis and sound advice can be provided.
Now, more than ever before, it is important that there should be no want of essential plant food. The possibility is to link up the manure, lime and fertilizer program with a definite knowledge of the soil's nutritional deficiencies.

DIVISION WAS EXACT— EVEN TO THE CHICKEN

There was nothing half way about the manner in which H. L. Bruce divided his nine-year partnership with Miles Duncan, co-owner of a popular Harlem restaurant.

Angry after a political disagreement with his Republican partner, Bruce, Tammany Hall's only Negro district leader, called in ten men to help him remove his share of the restaurant property.

They divided the tables and chairs equally, then sawed a counter in half and similarly partitioned a mirror, a straw hat—even a roast chicken on a platter waiting to be served.

business and assurances war orders would be placed shortly have been a boom to Ottawa valley woolen mills with the result most of them are

The SNAPSHOT GUILD HOME PICTURE SHOWS

It's easy to take full-color shots and project them on a screen in large size for your friends. A small projector less than six inches tall can project pictures several feet wide.

HERE'S an interesting idea for presenting pictures—a home picture show, with your own shots projected on a screen in large size, so that the whole family or a group of friends can enjoy them together.
Home movie makers, of course, have always used this method; but today it is also becoming popular for "still" shots, now that so many camera fans are using the full-color films made for miniature cameras.

When you take miniature-camera shots on a roll of modern full-color film, it is returned to you as a group of individual full-color transparencies—ready for viewing directly, or for projection on a home screen.

The "snap" shows how the difference is that this illustration is printed in black-and-white, while the actual screen pictures are in full color—like the original subject.
Several compact, inexpensive projectors for these full-color shots are now on the market. A color transparency is simply inserted in the projector... the lamp is switched on ... and you get a screen picture up to several feet across! Naturally, this dramatic size adds to any shot, and helps bring out the fullest beauty of the colors.

During a recent New York World's Fair visit, I saw hundreds of these color transparencies projected at the photography building—on a screen nearly four times as tall as a man!
That display is truly spectacular. Of course, you can't show your color shots on that scale with a home projector.
But you can take close-ups of your child, or friends, or the flowers in your garden—and present them larger than life!—on a screen in your own living room, all in exquisite glowing color! Which, you'll admit, is quite something.

As for taking color shots—it's as easy as taking snapshots in black-and-white. You load the film in a suitable miniature camera, set the lens and shutter according to the ex-posure instructions, and shoot. And —as long as you follow instructions—you're sure of correctly-exposed color transparencies.
Sooner or later, every real camera fan will be shooting full-color film as well as black-and-white... and will have a projector for showing his color transparencies. It's a really modern way to enjoy pictures... and it's growing in popularity every day. Once you try it, you'll see why.

HOUSEWIVES HERE IS AN OPPORTUNITY TO CO-OPERATE

In connection with the marketing of the 1939 crop of Canadian apples the following statement has been made by Hon. James G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture:

"We have been notified that as a result of conditions brought about by the war, the normal quantity of apples will not be imported into Great Britain from Canada this year. Of a crop of not more than 15,000,000 bushels about 10% is usually exported. It is now usual to dispose of half of the fruit and to dry and can the remained."

"The Government of Canada has already announced its plan to purchase and process a substantial portion of the apple crop, and also propose through the Dominion Department of Agriculture to carry on a national merchandising and advertising campaign for the purpose of informing the public regarding the availability of this excellent fruit and of stimulating home consumption. The grading regulations have been so amended that only the better quality apples will be available as fresh fruit."

"In this connection, it is believed that everyone in Canada, and particularly the housewife, will be willing to co-operate in bringing about a larger consumption of this excellent Canadian fruit during the next few months. This would solve the problem."

PARENTS SHOULD TEACH CHILDREN PRINCIPLES OF FIRE PREVENTION EARLY

Last year the Fire Demon numbered among his victims in Canada 263 men, women and children. In 1937, 105 children lost their lives, while in 1938, 118 children's lives were claimed. This is a staggering admission and the responsibility for such tragedies can be traced to the negligence of parents who have laid directly to the negligence of parents who far too often leave their helpless little ones alone in the house while they are away from the house to show. These holocausts frequently occur in rural districts where neighbors are long distances away and the parents are unable to reach their burning home in time to save their children from a horrible death.

Every parent should realize that it is his duty to teach his children the principles of fire prevention. They should not be allowed to play with fire, matches should be kept out of their reach, and the playing with celluloid toys should be discouraged. By a strict adherence to the use of common sense, parents can thus save themselves the bitter anguish and lifelong regret which must be ever present when a child perishes by their neglect.

PILOT RECEIVED LECTURE ON POISE—BUT HAD LAST LAUGH

Whether it is true or not, it's a good story anyway.
When Vincent Swinton was minister for air in the British cabinet, he took the controls of a new seaplane.
He was accompanied by a young pilot of the Royal Air Force.

Having taken off from Southampton, they flew over most of southern England, and finally returned to Southampton. There he landed on the water, and in a kindly, amused tone of voice, gave his young companion a lecture on keeping his poise. He tried to convey the idea that the commander-in-chief of aircraft for Great Britain really knew the difference between a sea plane and a land plane. "No harm done, old chap," he said, "but don't lose your head so easily the next time, what?"

Whereupon Lord Swinton removed his helmet and stepped out grandly into 50 feet of water.

FAREWELL JOKE ON SON

Cilberto Venturini, one of Italy's most famous clowns, played a farewell joke on his son by bequeathing to him his last act.

When the son dashed the hat to the ground in anger, a paper fell out.
It was a deposit receipt for 30,000 lire ($3,000) in the son's name.
Venturini has opened a restaurant where he preserves the top hat in a glass case.

Mayors of the nine largest South African cities have approved a proposal by the mayor of Johannesburg to raise £1,000,000 in the form of a subscription to buy food for Great Britain.

Sunshine and Shadow
The minister illustrated a point of his sermon by saying, "We plant roses in the sunshine, but if we want tulips to grow we must keep them in a shady place."

Following the service he was approached by one of the women of his congregation, her face was beaming.
"Yes, I went on, 'I never did appreciate that sermon,'" she said, shaking his hand. At last it seemed his efforts were appreciated.
"Yes," she went on, "I never did know before what was the matter with my husband."

VALUABLE PAINTINGS WILL BE KEPT IN NEW YORK

Because of the international situation, foreign museums which have loaned paintings to the masterpieces of art exhibition at the New York world's fair have asked exhibit directors to keep the paintings until further instructions are sent.
Cabled requests to that effect have been received from directors of the Louvre, the Vatican Gallery of London and the Rijksmuseum of Amsterdam.

Pictures in the art exhibit from these three museums represent about $2,500,000 worth of art.
Perry T. Rathbone, director of the exhibit, has informed other leaders that no shipments will be made either now or at the close of the fair, without specific directions.

"We have no objections to retaining custody of the foreign pictures as long as the owners may wish," he said.

Serving The Miner

They were roaring days in the Spring of 1916 when gold was discovered in the Klondike.
Transportation was difficult and slow, and the price of travel took a heavy toll of prohibitive prices—ham and

Edmonton High-Lights In News

EDMONTON, Oct. 26.—There is little likelihood that Albertans will be asked to pay higher income taxes in order to raise $1,000,000 extra revenue as proposed by Professor J. Viner, who was engaged by the Province some months ago to investigate the public debt situation. Premier Aberhart intimated in an informal statement that those in the lower brackets cannot well be asked to pay more.

In his summary of the 112 page report which he handed to the government, Professor Viner, a Canadian born economics teacher at the University of Chicago, says that he does not find it possible to recommend that the Province undertake to resume interest payments on the full contractual levels without further ado. He does recommend that creditors make some concessions in return for Governmental efforts to meet the obligations.

Negotiation with bondholders to obtain lower interest rates, borrowing only for strict emergencies, and the seeking of maturity date extensions he considers necessary. His income tax proposals would double income tax rates in the lower brackets. Observers are of the opinion that no revenues can at this time be sought from this source in view of impending war expenditures and practically assured federal tax impositions all along the line.

Opening of Alberta's 30th Treasury branch is scheduled for Oct. 19 in Edmonton South. Located on the business section of Whyte Ave., the new branch has been found necessary to cope with the volume of business flowing from the Strathcona and adjacent rural areas. Treasury branches and agencies now operating in all parts of the province number 330.

For instant ease from chest colds, ordinary sore throats.

Long rolling trains of Lord Golden Grain—east-bound, west-bound—food for the peoples of Europe, Asia and America, justifying Alberta's claim as 'The World's Greatest Heritage'.

World famous products of Western grains are MONOGRAM GIN and MONOGRAM RYE aged to mature perfection.

Canadiana

Canada's Future

Edmonton.—Prediction that Canada will be the centre of the British Empire was made here recently by Senator A. McDonald of New Brunswick. He thought that Canada's population would increase to at least 25,000,000 largely as a result of immigration from England after the war. Senator McDonald is the only independent member of the Canadian senate.

The Sky's The Limit

Ottawa.—Hundreds of millions of dollars will be spent in Canada to make her the new air centre of the Empire. The plan was announced in London recently and involves the training of air force recruits from Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Canada, as well as manufacturing all types of aircraft in the Dominion. Building and training will be adaptable for both war and civil aviation.

Aid For Allies

Ottawa.—Canadian mines are being stepped up to peak production, according to statements of mining officials here. Compared with 1914, gold production is vastly increased. Production of copper has been stepped up almost eight times, nickel has been increased five times and lead production is ten times what it was at that time.

Free Speech

Ottawa.—Answering a protest of the C.C.F., in which M. J. Coldwell expressed alarm at the "sweeping character" of censorship regulations in Canada, Prime Minister King assured the national chairman that there was no threat against criticism of government policy beyond the regulations of the Defence of Canada Measures. Subject to this protection, said Mr. King's letter, "party political controversy will not be restricted or impeded."

Price Problems

Ottawa.—Fixing the prices of particular commodities has not been considered by the wartime price board, it was announced here recently. The board has been holding daily sessions. Complaints of profiteering, several prosecutions for food hoarding, and general problems are said to have been engaging the attention of board members.

Oil Is Now Up

Calgary.—Allowable production from 88 wells in Turner Valley has been increased to 26,000 barrels of crude oil per day. This was announced recently by the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas conservation board. Protection of individual wells now sets an output of from 85 to 859 barrels per day.

General Overhaul

Ottawa.—Governor General Lord Tweedsmuir is to undergo medical examination and special treatment in New York, it was announced at government house. These sources felt no serious concern about Lord Tweedsmuir's health but said he would undergo a general medical overhaul.

More Murphies

Ottawa.—Alarmists who have been telling of potato shortages find no confirmation in the latest estimates of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

This report sets 38,875,000 cwt. as the production for 1939 as compared with 35,938,000 cwt. for 1938. The same report estimates an increase of 19 per cent in sugar beets, bringing production from 327,000 tons in 1938 to an estimated 628,000 tons this season.

What Alberta Makes

Edmonton.—Addressing members of the Alberta Provincial Sheep Breeders' Association here recently E. P. Tanner, general manager of Alberta's only woolen mill, asked for the co-operation of the sheep breeders in the venture. He said they should take advantage of the mill, now employing between 20 and 30 persons, to produce made in Alberta woolen goods.

Butter Going Up

Calgary.—Price of butter jumped another cent a pound here recently to bring total increase to 5 cents during the last month. This is due to "legitimate" causes rather than speculation, according to creamery men. Poor pasturage following a dry July is responsible for a drop in cream receipts, they said.

ELMWORTH NEWS

ELMWORTH, Oct. 14.—Elmworth and district was shocked at the sudden death of one of its old citizens, Clarence Colton, who passed away last week after a short illness. Coming to this country quite a few years ago with his wife, they lived on the Wm. Barr place the last few years. Last spring they moved to Dimsdale, where Mrs. Colton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colwell reside. We all knew Clarence very well, he was ever a true and loyal neighbor, always willing to do a good turn. He will be sorely missed by his wife and three children and by all who knew him in Elmworth. The district sends their deepest sympathy to the family. The L. A. held their Sept.-October meeting at the home of Mrs. G. Moyer. Owing to the heavy fall of snow and bad roads, there was a small attendance. The chicken supper that was to be held Oct. 16 was postponed until further notice. The date of the next meeting will be the usual third Thursday of each month. Quite a number of Elmworth people went to Rio Grande to see the Clifford Entertainers and enjoyed the show very much. There was a dance after the show. The church was taxed to its capacity with friends and mourners of the Hythe town and district, which was evidence of the high esteem in which Mrs. Cadenhead was held.

Keep Homes Safe

By MARY MAY WYMAN

"It is a great source of satisfaction to know that much thought is now being given to the problem of home safety. The problem is serious and it is complex. When an accident occurs on the highway, everybody knows about it. There is an open opportunity to fix responsibility. Usually there is a trial and frequently damages are collected. Accidents in the home can be hidden. Home accidents are a reflection on the home or the victim, and are not attended by trials of any type."

"Legislation can accomplish certain safety factors in industrial and highway safety, but education is the only force that will bring about home safety. Most of us cherish the ideal of the sanctity of the home—an ideal that is dear to every heart. We really resent anything that threatens to invade the privacy of our homes. Every man's home is his castle, and few persons are willing to admit that the castle is not perfect. Mothers are children's most important teachers. A child is in school only a small part of his time, and he has lived at home at least several years before he spends one day at school. Experts tell us that these are the years in which children learn very rapidly and by imitation. What a child learns before he enters school is determined not by what his father and mother know, but by what the adults do day by day."

"We have a right to manage our homes. We are free to have our homes as we want them to be. Let us accept the challenge to keep our homes safe. We have a real opportunity."

WEDDING OF INTEREST TAKES PLACE AT SEXSMITH OCT. 19

A wedding of interest to the people of Sexsmith took place in the Emmanuel Church on Thursday, Oct. 19, when Dorothy Baker, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Baker, was united in marriage to Carl Swidde of Winnipeg. The Rev. H. E. Webb was the officiating clergyman. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Wedding March played by Mrs. Barrett. One interesting fact was that the bride was the first white child born in Sexsmith. Her dress was of Squadron Navy, trimmed with fuchsia grey accessories, and she carried a bouquet of petunias and carnations. The bridesmaid was Miss Amy Baker, dressed in Suez Rose with Navy accessories and carrying a bouquet of stocks and snapdragons. The groom was supported by Mr. Norman Dodge. The church was filled with the many friends of the family. After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, to which many attended. The happy couple left on Friday's train for Two Rivers, B. C., where they will make their home.

INTERESTING MEETING HELD IN SEXSMITH UNITED CHURCH

On Sunday, October 22, a very interesting meeting of the young people of Sexsmith was held in the United Church, when Ted Miller of Edmonton addressed the group. Over fifty young people heard this youth, who attended the Amsterdam Christian Youth Conference, give his impressions of the conference, and tell us something of Christian unity all over the world. Mr. Miller was one of four delegates from Alberta to attend the conference. There were 65 countries and 220 denominations represented, by 1,700 young people, meeting to discuss world problems as they affect young people.

This conference held in Amsterdam last July and August marked a real milestone in the progress of Christian unity in the world. Although so many churches were represented, they took the sacrament of the Lord's Supper in only four different forms. When one remembers that the Greek Orthodox, and Greek Catholic churches were represented, and many other European churches much different from ours, this is notable.

Mr. Miller read extracts from the official reports, showing the trend of youth thoughts on such problems as Youth and the War, Youth and economics, Youth and the Bible, etc.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was spent, when lunch was served by the social committee of the Young Peoples' Society.

SHOWER HELD IN HONOR MISS LAURA BROWN, BRIDE-ELECT

A happy occasion took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lea Warren on Thursday, October 12, when a nice shower was held in honor of Miss Laura Brown, a bride-elect of this month. The guests were entertained first of all by a "Hard Time Wedding" which was acted out in great spirit by the members of the "Comradeship for China" group. Then the bride-elect was presented with a huge daisy by Eunice Creighton, who told Laura that the way to find out if her friends loved her was to pluck the petals one by one. At the end of each petal there was fastened a piece of paper on which was written a clue to the hiding place of the tokens of her friends' affection. Each hiding place disclosed a very pretty and useful gift.

After the last gift had been opened the group spent a very happy time playing games; then Mrs. Warren served a dainty and tasty lunch. After singing hymns and choruses, the group parted with prayer.

ASPEN GLEN AUTO CAMP NEWS

FAUST, Oct. 23.—A class in the higher school-room were to imagine themselves an explorer and write a diary of the last days of his experience when he got lost and starved to death. One pupil added an unusual incident when in closing, he said, "and I died."

Snow storm starting Sunday night is continuing as this is being written, Monday evening.

Some time since, it is stated, there have been of no use in pulling cars out of the mud holes west of here. It requires a tractor with its steady, long, hard pull.

One motorist on Sunday scouted the idea that the highway was as bad as represented. "If you pay attention to all you hear you won't get far," he said. He had got as far as Faust and not infrequently he would have been right; but not this time unfortunately. In the evening the snow was at the hotel and rather quiet. His was one of the six that evening pulled out of the holes by the tractor.

One car load of young folks from Erma, Alta., after three nights at Aspen Glen are leaving their auto there, while they finish their visiting trip by train and return.

Another auto, a family from east of Regina, on their way to see her mother and father at Notkwin reached Aspen Glen camp after many days of travel. They were greeted when Monday morning greeted them with a snow storm, they packed up and returned, and the kiddies lost their fond hope of seeing their grand folks.
